

Refuse To Review Decision

Communist Registration Is The Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court refused to review a decision overturning conviction of the Communist party of the United States for failure to register under the Internal Security Act.

The refusal leaves the lower court decision standing.

The Supreme Court's action was announced in a brief order that gave no reason.

Justice Byron R. White, formerly deputy attorney general, took no part in consideration of the case.

The lower court's decision was by a three-judge panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals here.

The Justice Department had asked the Supreme Court to hear argument in the case and reverse the lower court.

The appeals court held that the government had failed to prove anyone was available to the party who could sign the registration statement without incriminating himself.

Urging reversal of the decision, the government appeal questioned whether party officers may refuse to register for the party "when they cannot possibly incriminate themselves because the statute prohibits any information obtained by registration from being introduced in evidence in a judicial proceeding."

Anyway, the appeal said, "no new leads to other information can result (from registration) since party officials have publicly stated their positions." Further, the appeal stated "there is not the slightest reason to reject in this case the ordinary rule that an organization can find attorneys or other agents to act for it."

State Road Death Toll Set At Nine

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The death of a St. Louis County policeman Sunday night raised to nine the number of persons killed as a result of traffic accidents in Missouri over the weekend.

The policeman, Gerald Jaeger, 33, of St. Ann was hit by a car early Saturday while directing traffic from a drive-in theater in St. Ann.

Also injured was Patrolman Walter Rogers, 39, of St. Ann, who was still in serious condition at the hospital.

A four-car crash early Sunday caused by a drag race on Lindbergh Boulevard in St. Louis County resulted in the death of Kathleen Oloriz, 18, of suburban Warson Woods, driver of one of the cars.

Dr. Douglas Thomas, 37, of the St. Louis suburb of Bellefontaine Neighbors was killed Sunday when his car hit a post in front of the suburb's city hall.

A car overturned on Interstate 55 north of Cape Girardeau Sunday night, killing 19-year-old Mrs. Leda Ann Gomes of St. Louis. Two other persons were injured, including her 35-year-old husband, Bobby Gomes.

A young Kentucky couple was killed Sunday in a two-car collision on U.S. 60 near Rogersville. Six others were injured, including four small children. Dead are Leroy Pollard, 28, and his wife, Shirley Lou Pollard of Princeton, Ky. Their 3-year-old daughter, Maggie, was critically injured.

A two-car collision on Missouri 7 a half mile east of Creighton killed Mrs. Zelma Woodmansee, 60, of Kansas City. Her husband, Earl Woodmansee, 65, and a passenger in the other car, Mrs. Joyce Emma Laing, 18, of Overland Park, Kan., were injured. William L. Smith, 27, of Clinton, Mo., was killed Saturday when his car ran off U.S. 71 and struck an embankment one mile west of Harrison.

The other fatality occurred Friday night.

Miss Cheri Lee Holt, 16, of Marceline, Mo., died in a Marcelline hospital Sunday night of injuries received in a two-car accident Friday, before the weekend period began.

Catholics Demonstrate In Viet Nam

Threaten Country With Political, Religious Upsets

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Thousands of Vietnamese Roman Catholics demonstrated for three hours in downtown Saigon Sunday, threatening the embattled country with new religious-political turmoil.

Many demonstrators carried banners denouncing U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, although organizers of the rally said the anti-Lodge banners were not authorized.

Other banners called Buddhism an ally of communism. A few placards thanked the United States for its aid in the fight against Communist guerrillas.

The anti-Lodge demonstrators accused the ambassador of supporting the Buddhists in their campaign against President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime, which was overthrown in November. Diem, his family and many of his leading officials were Roman Catholics and the church had a favored position under his regime.

The demonstration brought out an estimated 40,000 persons on the morning after the sentencing of a Catholic army officer whose troops fired on Buddhist demonstrators in Hue last year. Eight persons died in the clash, which set off the Buddhist campaign against Diem.

Maj. Dang Sy, 37, was sentenced to life imprisonment. Some Catholics think he is being offered as a scapegoat to South Viet Nam's Buddhist majority.

Most of the demonstrators assembled in a square before the U.S. Information Agency building and a U.S. officers' mess.

Ruby Talks To Warren On Killing

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A clean-shaven but "wild-eyed" Jack Ruby told Chief Justice Earl Warren Sunday he had no connection with Lee Harvey Oswald, whom he shot two days after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

This was reported by a reliable source after Warren spent more than three hours with Ruby in the Dallas County jail. It was believed the first time a chief justice of the United States ever took testimony from a prisoner in jail.

Warren and other members of the Warren Commission toured the Texas School Book Depository Building, from where the assassin is alleged to have fired rifle bullets at Kennedy, as well as Oswald's rooming house and Ruby's apartment.

They also visited the Texas Theater, where Oswald was captured, and the intersection near where police officer J. D. Tippitt was slain.

Oswald was charged with the murders of both Kennedy and Tippitt. Ruby is under the death sentence for slaying Oswald.

Stresses Liberty

Johnson Appeals To College Grads

SWARTHMORE, Pa. (AP)—President Johnson scoffed today at those who call the federal government "a major menace to individual liberty."

At the same time he appealed to college graduates of 1964 not to "feel alien to this world they are preparing to enter."

By some definitions, Johnson's message appeared to be aimed, on the one hand, at those who share the political philosophy of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and, on the other, at the college-educated segment of "the beat generation."

In his address prepared for commencement exercises at Swarthmore College, Johnson said: "Let us not call forth phantom fears about what the future holds."

Continuing, he said, "One of those fears is that the federal government has become a major menace to individual liberty."

"This," he asserted, "is not so."

The chief executive went on to ask a series of rhetorical ques-

Petition To Choke Off Filibuster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thirty-eight senators filed a petition today to close off the Senate's record filibuster against the House-passed civil rights bill.

The petition to invoke the Senate's debate-limiting cloture rule was sent to the desk by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and will automatically come to a vote one hour after the Senate meets on Wednesday.

In hopes of winning the two-thirds majority necessary to put the rule into effect, leaders yielded to the demands of a group of Republicans to permit the Senate to vote first on some key amendments to the House-passed bill.

Under an agreement nailed down Saturday, debate on these amendments will be limited to four hours each. The votes on them will be taken Tuesday.

All this suggests a possibly decisive turning point in the long legislative battle, now in its 73rd day and 14th week.

With the Senate moving toward a showdown on civil rights, the House will take up Tuesday a $3.5-billion foreign aid authorization bill. This is the full amount asked by President Johnson in what he termed a "barebones request."

New Lead On Bank Robbery

MEMPHIS, Mo. (AP) — A search for two gunmen who robbed the Farmers and Merchants Bank here Saturday was switched to Granger after a report there of a stolen car.

The Highway Patrol said the car is believed to have been taken by the men who fled from the bank under gunfire with about $5,000. Granger is 10 miles east of Memphis.

The getaway car was found abandoned shortly after the robbery near a wooded area where authorities used bloodhounds and a patrol plane in a search Sunday.

tions, all of them obviously intended to be answered in the negative:

"Does government subvert our freedom through the social security system?"

"Does government undermine our freedom by bringing electricity to the farm—by controlling floods—or by ending bank failures?"

"Is freedom lessened by efforts to abate pollution in our streams—or by efforts to strengthen competition in the free market?"

"Is freedom diminished by banning the sale of harmful drugs—by providing school lunches for our children—by preserving our wilderness areas—or by improving the safety of our airways?"

Nehru Ashes Strewn On Holy Rivers

ALLAHABAD, India (AP) — Thousands of grieving Indians plunged into the Ganges River in a frenzied stampede today as the ashes of the late Prime Minister Nehru were strewn on India's holy rivers.

At least one woman drowned before police, wielding clubs from boats, forced swimmers and waders to the shore. Four persons were killed in a stampede Sunday as Nehru's ashes were brought from New Delhi.

The mourning thousands, dressed in the white homespun cotton of India's poor, mobbed a floating platform and it sank under their weight. Scores tried to climb in boats filled with newsmen and government officials, but police beat them back.

About half a million persons crowded to the river banks or waded in. The temperature hit 107 degrees and scores collapsed. Others were injured by police clubs.

Nehru's family, wilted by the heat and almost deafened by the uproar, went out into the river in an amphibious army vehicle to strew the ashes.

"Babuji (father) is gone," sobbed Nehru's daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, as she boarded the vehicle.

Her sons, Rajiv and Sanjay, emptied the urn of Nehru's ashes at a point where the Ganges and the Jumna rivers meet.

Governors Seeking Accord On Statement of Principles

Some Views Contrary To Goldwater Opinion

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Republican governors sought agreement today on a statement of principles to be presented to the GOP convention platform committee that ran contrary to some views of Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Gov. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, who is to be the keynote speaker at the Republican presidential convention in San Francisco, said in an interview that he and colleagues attending the 56th annual Governor's Conference hope to reach agreement on the document.

Meetings On Civil Strife In Cyprus

UN Group Holds Talks With Both Opposing Leaders

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—U.N. officials thrashed out with rival leaders of divided Cyprus today their final positions for a settlement of the civil strife and drafted a special report for U.N. Secretary-General U Thant for a Security Council session June 17.

Three top political figures of the U.N. team dealing with the Greek-Turkish row called first on Greek President Archbishop Makarios and later sought the views of Turkish Vice President Fazil Kuchuk.

Taking part in the secret conversations were Galo Plaza Laso, special representative of U Thant; political adviser Alejandro Flores, and Jose Rolz Benetti, deputy to Dr. Ralph J. Bunche.

The political activity was conducted in an atmosphere seemingly relaxed in contrast to the weekend excitement aroused by Greek Cypriot fears of an invasion from the Turkish mainland. The United Nations has been unable to find any evidence to justify a state of emergency.

The United Nations took a step designed to encourage Turks to come out from behind their walls and travel without escorts through Greek territory. The plan to stop escorting was announced Sunday night and a spokesman spelled it out more clearly today. He said special escorts still would be provided.

A U.N. spokesman said the Greek Cypriot government has given assurances that travelers will not be molested and convoys from Turkish areas to port for export or those bringing in essential supplies will be cleared.

Fighter Pilots Ordered To Fire On Red Areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. jet fighter planes operating over Laos were reported today to have orders to fire on Communist military installations when necessary to protect unarmed photo reconnaissance aircraft.

Two U.S. planes have been shot down in two days by ground fire from Communist forces. Officials here said their reports indicated this was fire from automatic aircraft guns and perhaps heavy machine guns.

The operation of the armed escort jets over Red held areas of Laos indicates the United States is becoming more deeply involved in the conflict there in its efforts to give assistance to the neutralist government of Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma.

Red Pathet Lao troops recently drove neutralist troops from the Plaine des Jarres.

The decision, evidently made at the end of last week, to send fighter escorts with the photo planes, appears also to be part of the developing U.S. policy of increasing resistance to Communist offensives in Southeast Asia.

Pilot Is Safe

Commie Gunfire Downs US Plane

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Communist groundfire knocked down the second U.S. Navy jet in two days over Laos Sunday, but the pilot was safely lifted out of the red-held jungle.

U.S. officials hoped to continue an air search today for the pilot of the first plane, but a heavy cloud cover hung over Vientiane. The monsoon season has set in.

Both planes were shot down east of the Plaine des Jarres area, recently overrun by the Pathet Lao. Both were Crusader jets capable of 1,000 miles an hour. They were operating from the carrier Kitty Hawk in the South China Sea.

The second jet was armed and accompanying an unarmed reconnaissance plane over central Laos. The United States has been conducting photographic flights over Communist positions since May 17 at the request of the neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma.

The pilot, Cmdr. Doyle W. Lynn of La Mesa, Calif., was rescued by a U.S. helicopter and flown back to the Kitty Hawk, an embassy spokesman said.

U.S. officials gave no details of the jungle rescue, but it was unofficially reported that several helicopters had been badly shot up in an attempt to find the other pilot, Lt. Charles F. Klusmann, 30, of San Diego, Calif.

Barnett Case Refusal In US Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court refused today to reconsider its denial of a jury trial to former Mississippi Gov. Ross R. Barnett and his successor, Paul B. Johnson, on criminal contempt charges filed against them in the James H. Meredith case.

Barnett and Johnson were charged with contempt on the ground they refused to obey orders of the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans not to interfere with admission of Meredith, a Negro, to the University of Mississippi in 1962.

Meredith entered the university amid rioting that caused President Kennedy to send in federal troops. Meredith since was graduated.

The Supreme Court split 5-4 in ruling April 6 against claims by Barnett and Johnson that they were entitled to a jury trial.

Sees Barry Drive Near 600 Mark

146 Delegates Now Selected In Ten States

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater's drive for Republican presidential nominating delegates is expected to near the 600 mark this week as 146 delegates are chosen in 10 states.

With the GOP convention opening five weeks from today, the Arizona senator has 535 first ballot votes according to an Associated Press survey of delegates already chosen. He needs just 120 more—655—for a first ballot victory.

Indications are that Goldwater will pick up enough votes this week to boost his front running total near the 600 mark and set the stage for the last two state conventions next week in Montana and Texas.

Goldwater will be favored to win most of those delegates, apparently giving him enough to win the nomination.

But Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., said Sunday he thought Goldwater would be from 80 to 100 votes short of a first ballot nomination, and he envisioned "quite a contest."

While attention is on the GOP presidential nomination race, candidates for two governorships, three Senate seats and 10 House seats will be decided by voters or party conventions in five states.

Goldwater's post-California primary drive got under way over the weekend at State conventions in Colorado, Alabama, Washington and Hawaii and at a pair of district conventions in Virginia. Combined with some minor vote shifts in Iowa and the District of Columbia, he netted 65 votes, according to the AP survey based on primary commitments, pledges, instructions or stated preference.

Barry Sees No Chance Of Losing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater figures that it would take the solid and open opposition of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton to derail his bid for the Republican presidential nomination.

The Arizona senator indicates he sees no chance of that.

"If they did that, I'd probably step out anyway," Goldwater told newsmen Sunday night as he flew back from Chester, Pa. "A thing like that would tear the party apart."

Goldwater said earlier that all three men have disavowed any part of an effort to stop his candidacy to head the ticket.

He said if he wins the nomination he will "allow my party full swing" in choosing a vice presidential candidate. Goldwater said he thinks party leaders would want to balance the ticket by choosing an Easterner of moderate Republican views to share the ticket.

Goldwater added if he were Scranton he would be thinking about a bid for the vice presidency.

He said if Scranton had second place on a Republican ticket which failed to beat President Johnson the Pennsylvania governor would be in a position to claim the presidential nomination in 1968.

Answers Your Problems

Dear Readers: Remember the letter from the college girl who wrote home that she had been invited to a coed pajama party, sponsored by her sorority? The family was shocked and so was I. But, of course, I attended college back around the time earth's crust cooled and much has changed since then.

I invited the current crop of college students to clue me. They did. By the thousands. I was told that coed pajama parties are very much a part of campus life complete with mattresses.

Have a look at the mail:

Dear Ann Landers: Please do not print the name of my city or sorority. Two years ago our Greek group gave a pajama party. We removed all the furniture and put mattresses down on the floor which is the custom. We also put a bed in the corner and hired a professional photographer to take pictures of couples in bed. We thought our parents would get a boot out of the snapshots. We were wrong. Unfortunately, some parents have no sense of humor. They sent up a howl that was heard in the dean's office. That was the end of pajama parties on our campus and I think it's a shame. They were the best parties of all.

From Lexington, Ky.: As a Kappa Alpha Theta I can tell you that no sorority here sponsors pajama parties. The fraternities put them on. Everyone wears underwear and nobody has ever gotten into trouble at a pajama party—so far as I know. It's the motel parties that are dynamite.

San Bernardino, Calif.: Here at Valley College we have pajama parties and they are approved by the administration so you know they are O.K. Some nut is always trying to push things too far, which happened here last year. A freshman girl showed up in a black sheer nightgown with a matching negligee. She was asked to leave. I'm sorry to say three fellows left with her.

Chicago: At Northwestern the pajama parties are Yawnsville compared with the Evanston beach parties. I've been to both and boin-n-n-g — there is no comparison!

when you need your phone
you can count on it

A freckle-faced miss invites a playmate over . . . Dad tracks down a hard-to-find gadget for the workshop . . . Mom gets a recipe from a friend. Whatever the need, people take it for granted their phone will work. What else that you use so often is so dependable?

Making telephones so reliable takes complex equipment, technical improvements and, above all, carefully trained telephone people.

The payoff for these things comes when you pick up the receiver and your phone works, and works well. Our goal is telephone service that continues to grow in dependability, convenience and personal value.

Mulching Gardens

Two problems usually always confront us in attempting to grow summer vegetables. They are weeds and lack of adequate available water. However, with the rain we have had—lack of water isn't a problem now. The more weeds are permitted to grow, the less water will be available. Weeds are gross feeders on moisture needed by your vegetable plants!

One way to solve the weed problem and lessen the water problem is to mulch the garden.

A mulch prevents surface evaporation of moisture, and during the hot summer months this can amount to an appreciable quantity of water! Also, a mulch can do an effective job of controlling weeds.

Other benefits of a mulch include reducing the soil temperature around the root system. This usually provides for better root development and better yields result.

A good mulch will help prevent erosion if your garden is on a slope. More rainfall will penetrate the soil through a mulch; soil is not compacted by direct contact with falling raindrops.

And finally, organic mulches, when incorporated into the soil at the end of the season, generally improve the physical condition or tilth of the soil.

The only problem that sometimes results from use of some mulches is a tie-up of the nitrogen levels in the soil. This can be corrected by applications of nitrogen when the mulch is incorporated into the soil.

Mulching materials are many and varied. Their use will depend upon the available supply, cost and ease of procurement and application.

A material commonly available in many areas is sawdust. But sawdust has a bad reputation among many gardeners—unjustly so!

Many gardeners have the idea that sawdust makes the soil acidic. Research has indicated this is not the situation. In fact the long term action of sawdust on the soil is slight alkaline reaction, but not enough to have any significance.

Actually the problem with sawdust is really a tie-up of nitrogen as mentioned earlier. Use of a half pound of ammonium nitrate per two bushels of sawdust, applied over the mulch after spreading, and again when incorporating the material into the soil should take care of the nitrogen tie-up.

If the nitrogen problem is handled properly, sawdust can turn a so-so soil into a topnotch soil for growing vegetables. For a mulch, apply sawdust to a depth of 1½ to 2 inches.

Straw is perhaps the next most logical mulching material from the availability and use standpoint. Straw is limited on the number of crops it can be used on because of the bulkiness of the material.

Straw is still the most used mulching material on tomatoes. Consider it also for peppers, eggplant, potatoes, corn and beans. Use three to four inches of straw to adequately keep weeds in check and prevent surface loss of soil moisture.

Other mulching materials that should be considered include: ground or chopped corn cobs, cottonseed hulls and peat moss. The latter is quite expensive and should only be used on small areas.

Black plastic mulches also may have a place in your garden. They can effectively control weeds, warm soils in early spring, reduce soil evaporation, and aid in seed germination by keeping soil moist. They are not without problems, however, so try them out on a small scale to see if they perform satisfactorily for you.

And remember, if we experience a wet season, a mulch may tend to hold too much moisture in the soil, thus being a disadvantage. But we usually do not have wet July and August in Pettis County.

Army Worms

We have had a lot of insect trouble this past week, particularly with army worms in small grains.

There still may be some fields with insect problems. We are making no changes in control recommendations. Use either 1½ pounds toxaphene or 4 ounces dieldrin per acre of small grains when you can find 4-6 worms per square foot. On dairy cattle pastures and that portion small grains immediately adjacent to fish bearing waters, 1½ pounds carbaryl (Sevin) could be used. From the standpoint of fish-bearing waters, we have, are, and will continue to recommend that applications of any of these three insecticides not be applied immediately adjacent to such waters. This means where either direct applications or drift from the application will reach the waters. There is no way of indicating in distance how far these materials could be carried by runoff. This is dependent upon nature and its intensity of rainfall plus many other factors.

Grasshoppers

Although there has been a few small grasshoppers present for about three weeks, there was a sizable hatch during the early part of the week in the central portion of the state. Watch for concentrated areas of small hoppers and plan to control them within the next two to three weeks before they disperse. The heavy rains probably destroyed many of these small hoppers, especially where hatching occurred during the downpours.

Bagworms

The majority of the bagworm eggs have hatched in the southern third of the state and is just beginning in the central third.

Control of bagworms on evergreens should be accomplished within one to two weeks following the time of hatch. This means that controls should be applied the second week in June. Spray evergreens thoroughly with anyone of the following: 2 tablespoons 60-65% toxaphene emulsifiable concentrate, or 1 tablespoon 57% malathion emulsifiable concentrate, or 2 tablespoons 50% carbaryl (Sevin) wettable powder per gallon of water. DO NOT apply malathion on Cannatti red cedar. Watch for possible buildup of spider mites following the use of either toxaphene or carbaryl.

Edie Fighting Back

EDITOR'S NOTE—When Ernie Kovacs was killed two years ago, Edie Adams began a long fight back to show business. It's been a tough battle, and here she reminisces among the "junkshop jetsam" bequeathed her by Ernie.

By BERNARD GAVZER

NEW YORK (AP)—The apartment in the expensive Fifth Avenue building seemed completely misplaced. Instead of luxurious furnishings, it held a combination of Victorian flotsam and junkshop jetsam.

Then, as though it was all part of a Surrealist film, the beautiful blonde entered—in a bathrobe.

weeks, but there as a sizeable emergence over the weekend. Since these are dry weather pests, the heavy rainfall should have taken its toll of the ensuing first generation larvae.

We should again emphasize that this first generation of larvae seldom causes appreciable injury to bluegrass. Therefore, we do not recommend control until the second generation comes off during July.

1964 Voluntary Wheat Program
This is a report from the ASCS Office on the recent Wheat Program sign up.

They report a total of 1944 wheat farms in Pettis County. 512 of these farms signed wheat contracts. The total wheat allotment allocated to all farms in the county is 24,306.6 acres. Total allotment allocated to the farms enrolled is 9,338 acres. The total intended diversion for payment is 1446 acres. Mandatory diversion is 1035.7 acres and voluntary diversion is 410.3 acres.

Estimated total diversion payment on the acreage enrolled is $11,243.15.

162 farms which signed contracts are destroying wheat back to allotment. 17 farms having wheat for other purposes, (pasture, green manure, etc.) are destroying wheat. And 10 farms having no contract destroying back to allotment.

There are 825 farms measure by the ASCS for wheat in Pettis County.

"Do you like my new piano," she asked, lightly indicating a bright red small upright. She moved near a white fireplace. It was fake. Where fake logs should have been burning falsely, there nestled cozily—and incongruously—a television set.

The apartment and all its furnishings are the legacy of Edie Adams' life with the late Ernie Kovacs, that wildest of Hungarian comics, to whom she was wed eight years.

"Ernie was a genius on sight gags," she says. "He had that wild kind of imagination so that something would hit him and he had to have it."

The result of combined Adams and Kovacs compulsive or inspirational buying is a sight gag which has:

A green-covered bed which is almost the size of a handball court. It nearly fills an alcove that features strings of red glass beading over the arched opening. Tiffany lamps in various stages of deterioration stand like islands in a sea of odds and ends. There are Spanish and Oriental rugs, and a polar bear skin. Next to a couch, almost blocking it, is an antique desk, and opposite it is a great hunk of organ, a Clough & Warren from the early 1900s. A large painting of the super-romantic period shows a woman on her deathbed; a sober, bearded doctor dispensing the sad news to the grieving husband; the husband, a clown in costume and makeup. The title: "Et le Spectacle Continue" — or, approximately, "The Show Goes On."

After Kovacs was killed in an auto crash in 1962, Miss Adams had to pick up the pieces. Slowly and resolutely she returned to show business. For the first time in years, she appeared in New York, at the Waldorf-Astoria, where her act was greeted warmly. The mainstay of her performance is the quick-change song-and-chatter imitations of other celebrated women. But it's a long way from the far-out stuff that went on with Ernie Kovacs.

"I keep away from comedy unless I can be with a real comedy strength," she says. "I need that in order to be funny."

There's a kind of chemistry that takes place so that you can work without a script or rehearsal with someone and give them the chancepace. I find it very hard to be funny by myself.

"The only one I can do this with is Sid Caesar. He has that comic genius. I could throw any kind of line at him and it would be enough to give him that extra second to think, to invent something very, very funny."

While she's been busy on television and currently polishing a night club act, her eyes are on something else.

"The composers complain they can't get singers who can act, or actresses who can sing."

"Somewhere, there is going to be an actress who is ready—and it is going to be me."

Such determination was evident long before in the life of Edith Elizabeth Enke, who grew up in Tenafly, N.J., and once shocked her relatives into white-lipped silence when she appeared on stage in a towel and large hat in "Ladies Night in a Turkish Bath."

On the road to the musical theatre, she was a drum majorette, an editor of the school yearbook, a student who used to get "A's" in subjects such as Latin, a student at the Juilliard School of Music, a summer camp counselor and a lecturer on diet and health, a chore she undertook dressed "in short short shorts." She also took the name Adams, from her mother's side of the family.

She started entering amateur contests, "singing my lyric coloratura song. I was dressed in a bathing suit usually because this was during the summer, and I started winning, mainly for the bathing suit."

When she is in the suit, it has a configuration that is statistically recorded as 37-25-36.

"I lost on the Arthur Godfrey show singing my Patti Page 'Would I Love You Love You Love You' song, exactly as Patti Page. But a TV director spotted me and I was hired to do TV in Philadelphia."

"I only knew one song then and since I didn't have contact lenses I couldn't read the cue cards so I had to learn a song each day, practically.

"It was there that I met Ernie. He always knew when anything would be funny, when it would work. I never knew when I was right or not. But he did," she says.

When Kovacs was killed, Edie also had to face up to the fact that she'd have to learn to do some things that just used to happen without her lifting a finger.

"Ernie took care of everything," she says. "I used to be the luggage taker-arounder."

Now, as she works toward further developing her career, she likes to visit the New York apartment she and Kovacs arranged. In its hodge-podge ugliness, it has a great charm and warmth.

Asked if she could describe its decor, she opened her eyes in feigned shock at such ignorance, and said: "Funk modern, of course."

College Degree Comes Late For Chinese Citizen

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Sun Pei Lee, a native of China who put seven children through college, finally got his own degree—at age 68.

It took him so long, Lee said in an interview, because "we had to make a living." In gratitude for paying their way through college, his children financed his five and a half years at the University of Delaware.

He received a bachelor of science degree in agriculture Sunday becoming the oldest student ever to graduate from the University of Delaware.

Only his wife and his youngest daughter, Stella, saw him receive his degree.

Lee was a pioneer of the textile industry in China. In 1956, under the Refugee Act, he and his wife followed their children to the United States. He became an American citizen in 1963. His wife hopes to become naturalized in August.

Lee hopes to work for an international or foreign agency which seeks to improve agriculture production and distribution.

Charge Sedalian
With Burglary
And Stealing

A Sedalian charged with second degree burglary and stealing has been released on $1,000 bond for preliminary hearing before Judge Frank Armstrong in Magistrate Court on July 2. Udell Gregory Boggess, 33, 120 East Jefferson, was arrested Sunday by Police Sgt. Perry A. Franklin after police had investigated a burglary at the residence of Malcolm Palmer, 121 East Pacific.

Palmer reported the burglary to police Saturday and said a .38 caliber snub nose revolver, a 410 gauge shotgun, five half-pints of whiskey and about $5 in dimes were missing. The loss was valued at $131.50.

Police said Boggess signed a statement admitting the break-in.

Boggess was held by police until 4 p.m. Sunday when he was transferred to the Pettis County jail. Monday morning Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz filed the burglary and stealing charge and at Boggess' arraignment in Magistrate Court he requested a preliminary hearing. Bond for Boggess was signed by W. C. Cramer.

Newsboys Spend
Weekend In KC

Six Democrat-Capital newsboys spent last Friday and Saturday in Kansas City as guests of the newspaper. The boys were winners of a recent subscription contest among route managers.

Winners making the trip included Jack Vaughan, Bob Eno, John Bader, and Steve Schondelmeyer, all of Sedalia; and Monte Owens, Knob Noster; and Steve Hoehns, Smithton.

Accompanying the group was Joe Forsee, Circulation Manager.

Included in the activities were the Kansas City Athletics-Boston Red Sox baseball game, Cinerama, a visit to Nelson Art Gallery, overnight at a hotel, and visits to other areas of interest.

The group returned home Saturday night.

Air Conditioning
Bids Under Study

Judges of the Pettis County Court opened six bids Monday morning for the air conditioning of the Circuit Courtroom in the courthouse, but took the bids under advisement for further study.

Presiding Judge C. Berry Elliott said there were several proposals for the air conditioning plan and more study would be required to determine the best method.

The court decided to air condition the Circuit Court chamber as it is poorly ventilated and stuffy when doors must be closed during sessions.

Accidents

Claude Page, who owns a piece of property just west of Smithton on a sharp curve in Highway 50, is undoubtedly frustrated in efforts to keep his fence in repair.

Friday morning an express bus carrying a load of young soldiers to Fort Leonard Wood overturned and took out a considerable amount of the fence.

Saturday Page put the fence back into proper order just in time for an accident Sunday afternoon which knocked down some 25 yards of the fence again.

Sgt. E. W. Van Winkle of the State Highway Patrol investigated the latter mishap and reported James Andrew Gorsic, 38, Sugar Creek, Mo., was east bound in a 1961 Ford at 5:55 p.m. when the car left the road and went through the fence.

Gorsic told Sgt. Van Winkle another car forced his vehicle off the road and when the car went on to the shoulder it went out of control. Gorsic and a woman passenger escaped injury. Sgt. Van Winkle said.

Gorsic's auto was pulled back on to the road by a Smithton wrecker and was able to continue on under its own power.

Page has some more fence building in store.

One passenger sustained a minor injury in a three-car accident on Highway 50 west of Sedalia at 4:30 p.m. Sunday near the Black Forest Motel. The mishap occurred 1.7 miles east of Route T.

Involved, the Highway Patrol reported, were a 1963 Chevrolet Corvair, driven by Thomas A. Bishop, 23, Kansas City; a 1963 Cadillac, driven by Carl Postlethwait, 37, Kansas City; and a 1960 Chevrolet, driven by Robert Swanson, 38, Kansas City.

The patrol said all three cars were westbound and the mishap occurred as Bishop and Postlethwait slowed in a line of traffic and the Swanson auto was unable to slow down in time.

Mrs. Anna Swanson, 37, wife of the driver of the latter car, suffered a small forehead laceration and was to seek her own medical treatment.

A Sedalian sustained a minor laceration on his nose and forehead in a one-car accident at 4:30 a.m. Sunday on Highway 65 in Benton County. The accident took place two miles south of the south junction of Highway 52 and 65.

Bernard Devine, 39, 1110 West 10th, told the Highway Patrol he was northbound in his 1962 Chevrolet when another car crowded his vehicle off the road. The Devine auto left the highway on the right side and hit a culvert.

He sought his own medical treatment.

Three persons received minor injuries in a three-car accident on Highway 65 in Benton County at 11 a.m. Sunday. The Highway Patrol said the accident happened nine-tenths of a mile north of Route CC.

Involved, the patrol said, were a 1964 Oldsmobile, driven north by Edgar Harris, 66, North Kansas City; a 1963 Plymouth, driven north by Charles Jones, 41, 709 East 13th, Sedalia; and a 1963 Rambler, driven south by Ruby Harms, 47, Kansas City.

The patrol said Harris was passing the Jones auto and met the southbound Harms car. The Harris car cut back into the right lane and hit the Jones car, glancing off and striking the Harms vehicle.

Jones received bruises to the left shoulder and arm. His wife, Betty, 35, complained of a back injury, and a passenger in their car, Jessie Hudson, 53, Sweet Springs, also had a back injury. They were treated by a Sedalia physician.

This formula is so effective that it is the physician's leading asthma prescription—so safe when used as directed that now it can be sold without prescription in most states.

The secret is—Primatene combines 3 medicines (in full prescription strength) found most effective in combination for asthma distress. Each performs a special purpose. So look forward to sleep at night, and freedom from asthma spasms. Get Primatene

Terrifying Nuts Roam the Streets

EDITOR'S NOTE — Death, violent, sudden, seemingly unprovoked. Its aimlessness is terrifying. If it can happen to a president, who is safe? The story of the nuts who roam the street and the problems they create for society. The first of two special articles.

By SID MOODY
AP Staff Writer

Above the roar in the darkened tunnel a subway motor-man hears a banging on his cab door. He opens it and is stabbed to death by a man he's never seen before.

A young girl is found strangled in a clump of bushes in a park. Police hold her boy friend. His suburban neighborhood is stunned. He was a model boy.

A teen-age youth with a troubled past that includes slashing his mother's underwear with a pair of shears is taken to a psychiatrist. Later the treatment is stopped despite protests of the doctors. Still later the boy rapes and kills a schoolmate.

A mad strangler terrorizes Boston. A child's body is found stuffed in a cellar ash can. And a man called Lee Harvey Oswald suddenly becomes a name for the ages.

This is death, violent, sudden, seemingly unprovoked. Its aimlessness is terrifying. If it can happen to a president, a motor-man, a young office worker, without warning, who is immune? How can society protect itself? How many "nuts" are there on the streets? How did they get there? Can they be found before it's too late?

Yes, they can be found. But the weapons of detection are few and often unproven. And, says psychiatrist Dr. Adolph Banay, an authority on the criminal mind, "The world is full of potential Oswalds."

Hopefully, however, most psychiatrists feel that an Oswald is generally made, not born. Hopefully, because what man makes he can often unmake.

The making of the malcontent, the sullen rebel, the anti-socialist begins at home. The shaping factors may be inherited — emotional patterns for instance. Physical birth injuries or congenital malformations can also scar mentally as well as physically. But it's the home environment in which the infant grows and develops that in most psychiatric opinion is the prime shaper of the personality. In the nursery where baby is king and Spock is his prophet, it is fashionable to be concerned about such matters as toilet training and whether to fondle the bawling infant or let him lie. It is not only fashionable but wise. For here the twig is already bending.

It may be a long road from the potty to the electric chair. But psychiatry has produced case after convincing case tracing the criminal back step by step to some trauma of infancy. In an exhaustive study of 12 murderers Prof. Stuart Palmer concluded that all had been terribly frustrated as children at home, in school or at play, had well-meaning but maladjusted mothers and had a high incidence of birth injuries or sickness when very young. None of them had been able to develop a substantial superego.

The superego is basically the conscience, that part of the mind shaped by family environment. Eventually it takes over from the parent the control of deeper impulses of the human nature. If it is weakly formed, it has little rein over the instincts, be they only to snatch an apple from a fruit stand or to gratify a sex urge in rape.

When a child wants something, it seeks satisfaction instantly. If hungry, it cries until fed. If it wants to wet, it wets. Gradually, says psychiatrist Dr. David Abrahamson, the child learns if it is to get, it must give. If it does not learn this, its self-control will be shallow, easy prey to its whims, be they conscious or more deeper subconscious drives.

This superego is formed best in a stable, wholesome home environment.

Dr. Abrahamson, a student of criminality, says: "In criminal behavior we find an exceedingly great amount of family tension as well as emotional deprivation. Persistent bickering causes children to tighten up with hostilities and resentment."

He also cites overprotective or neglectful parents, jealousy whether justified or not of a brother or sister, illness and biological development as factors that can generate aggressions in a child. For some of this the parent may be blameless. The child, for instance, may simply be too immature to appreciate that a brother must be loved, too.

Lee Oswald had a full brother sharing his same environment. Why is it one will go one way and the other another?

"A second child doesn't always go into the same environment," says Jacob Chwast, a psychologist who worked for years with youths as a New York police officer. "The parents may have looked forward lovingly to the first born."

"Subsequent children may be looked on as a financial burden. Or the love between mother and father may have cooled. This can be reflected in how the child is regarded."

"Every child," says Abrahamson, "is a composite of destructive - constructive, social and antisocial tendencies. The negative ones are fed by a disturbed home environment."

If a child learns to release his aggressions, such as in games or play, fine. If he releases them in temper tantrums, he's laying the framework of further frustrations. And if he suppresses his hostilities and anxieties, he is, in Palmer's words, "setting a time bomb."

"There's a breach between him and the community," says Banay. "There's an explosive in his pocket and if he receives a psychiatric jolt, he can go off." At home the brewing trouble may be overlooked. Mother love, indeed, can be blind. And few mothers have psychiatric training.

It's at school, even in the early years, that society can see — if it looks — the early warning signs of maladjusted personality. Stealing. Lying. Defiance. Shiftiness. Violent temper. Withdrawal. Overcompliance. The child who is just too good.

"I don't like the 'model boy'," says Abrahamson. "He's trying to hide something."

"Notice how often after a juvenile commits a crime of violence his teachers will say, 'But he was such a nice boy,'" said Don McNamara, dean of the N.Y. Institute of Criminology. "But it's not normal for a young kid to sit quietly for 45 minutes during class."

Childhood is a time of growth, trial and error in a living environment. A withdrawal from this world into a realm of day-dreams and fantasies may be a rejection of the everyday world, in which the personality must learn to live. A child then feels free to cultivate anger against imagined or actual wrongs.

Palmer, in his study of murderers, found several of their mothers remembered how abnormally quiet their sons had been as children. "He'd go for hours," said one mother, "without saying a word except 'yes' or 'no.'"

Palmer also noted his murderers had a harder time in school, were more inclined to bedwetting, nightmares, stuttering, phobias. They were alone more. Their mothers were more emotional. And, later, the killers-to-be were truants.

"When we examine the records of adult offenders," wrote Abrahamson, "we find childhood truancy the most common phenomenon in the great majority of them."

In his teens, Lee Harvey Oswald, a quiet, withdrawn boy with a flaring temper, was a truant, too, a flagrant one.

No one says that the slow learner, the quiet one, the bedwetter will be tomorrow's killer. Psychiatry does say these are warning signs — if only someone sees enough of them.

Abrahamson made a study some years ago and concluded 10 per cent of the youngsters in American public schools were emotionally disturbed. Most may live out their lives in quiet desperation, he says, never encountering the stress that might unleash their aggression against some unsuspecting target.

When such a person strikes, the act often seems so contrary to the superficial aspect of the individual that his acquaintances are stunned, not knowing the psychological turmoil that has long lain below the surface. Because the releasing mechanism that finally snaps the thin bonds of self-control may well have no evident relations to the person's trouble — in all likelihood the person himself doesn't consciously recognize the connection — society says the act of violence is senseless, sudden.

But psychiatry would argue that the people who suddenly erupt into violent crime have not exploded as such. They've left a long train of powder smoldering behind them.

Wrecking Ball Breaks Up Haunts

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — That wrecking ball is breaking up those old haunts of mine.

The latest Hollywood landmark to be attacked by the demolition crews is the NBC radio studios at Sunset Blvd. and Vine St. The familiar peacock building is being battered to oblivion after a brief quarter-century of life.

The studios are putting up a hard fight. They were built in 1939 to last, since the future for network radio seemed firm and enduring.

What memories those halls hold. They were happy hunting grounds for a young reporter who could drop in almost any day and find a host of stars.

There was Bing Crosby, sitting on a high stool and crooning to John Scott Trotter's orchestra. Fanny Brice, the irrepressible Baby Snooks. Red Skelton, who always did an aftershow for the studio audience that was longer than his broadcast.

Al Jolson, basking in the renewed fame caused by "The Jolson Story". The Fibber McGee and Molly crew. Perfectionist Edgar Bergen, who always treated his dummies with respect. Ozzie and Harriet Nelson and their two sons, who stood on boxes to reach the microphone. Phil Harris and Alice Faye. Oscar Levant, Jack Benny, Lum and Abner. "One Man's Family," etc., etc.

Meredith Willson, a longtime habitué of NBC Sunset, was talking about the place the other day.

"I drove by the old building the other day," he sighed, "and I couldn't look at what they were doing to it. I had to turn my head. It's too sad to see that place go."

Time To Get in Step

One of the things that contributed to the decline of the Roman Empire was the turning of the Senate into an oratorical society and rubber stamp for the whims of the emperor.

There are some who believe that a millenium and half later, another Senate (and House of Representatives) is failing another nation, but in a different way. Rather than a rubber stamp for administration policies, the U. S. Congress, they charge, is a roadblock on the path of progress.

In fact, in the opinion of one member of the "senior" body, Sen. Joseph S. Clark, Democrat of Pennsylvania, all of our legislatures, whether local or state or national, "are presently the greatest menace in our country to the successful operation of the democratic process."

In a new book, "Congress: The Sapless Branch," Clark contends that the wishes of the people as a whole concerning certain legislation are often blocked by the congressional group of obstructive committee chairmen representing local as opposed to national interests.

Depending upon which side you are regarding a particular bill, you may applaud or deplore this power possessed by a few men to control the brakes on the congressional machinery.

But one example of delay is the two years it took to pass the tax cut bill. In the end it was just that, a reduction in taxes and not basic tax reform which had been proposed in the beginning.

Clark believes that a few changes in the self-strangling rules of the two houses could do much to improve the situation.

The most desirable one, in his opinion, would be to require a vote on bills within six months after they were introduced.

Another reform would be far beyond that, however, and would involve the Constitution itself—changing senators' and representatives' terms to four years (now six and two), with the elections to be held in presidential election years.

Case for SPCWorms

It is, as you may have heard, practically impossible to make a worm mad.

But science has come up with something that just may do it.

It has concocted a chemical that irresistibly lures worms out of the ground without fishermen having to do so much as scratch the dirt.

This may be fine for the fishermen, but to a worm it undoubtedly must seem like baiting below the belt.

And a final morsel of comfort to the worms: at least no one has proposed holding them up by the ears to hear them yelp.

Selassie Finds Reds Produce Faster

(Editor's Note — After covering the repercussions of Khrushchev's visit to the Aswan Dam in Egypt, Drew Pearson now reports from Ethiopia.)

By DREW PEARSON

ADDIS ABABA, ETHIOPIA — After the dust of Soviet Dam dedication settled at Aswan, I traveled about a thousand miles up the Nile to a spot in Ethiopia where, forty years ago, an American company had been asked to build a dam on the Blue Nile, a river which, if diverted into Ethiopian irrigation ditches, could dry Mr. Nasser's lake into a swampy mudhole.

Enroute, I interviewed Emperor Haile Selassie, No. 1 elder statesman of Africa. Outside the emperor's palace two lions were tied to poles, symbolic of his title "Conquering Lion of the Tribe of Judah." It was possible to walk up and pat the male lion — if you had courage enough. I demonstrated my courage only after Mr. Al Lewitt of Washington had paved the way. The lioness demonstrated the truth of Kipling's famous conclusion, "The female of the species is more deadly than the male," and she was boycotted.

His Imperial Majesty received us in a long throne room decorated with elephant tusks and various photographs of his 48-year reign. The throne, covered with pale green leather, was capped with silver and had a gold crown at the very top.

While his Imperial Majesty talked, a small Mexican Chihuahua, obviously on familiar terms with royalty, kept scratching the royal pants leg, wanting to get up into his Majesty's lap. Finally she made it, and crawled round to the rear of the throne. Since the emperor is short and leans forward as he sits, there was plenty of room for a sort of dual reign, and the little dog snuggled up in the rear of the throne and went to sleep.

Delayed Dam-Building

I told his Imperial Majesty that I had first started writing about Ethiopia in 1927, when he had asked the J. G. White Company of New York to build a dam on Lake Tana, headwaters of the Blue Nile, in order to keep this key control of the Nile out of the hands of the British.

"Yes, that was almost forty years ago," replied the emperor, "and the Americans never did build that dam."

"We also asked the Americans to build a dam on the Fincha River, a tributary to the Blue Nile. It took them five years to make a survey and the dam is not even started."

"Meanwhile you have doubtless heard of the big fuss further down the Nile where the Russians dedicated a much bigger dam which they built not in forty years but in about five years."

"Sometimes there are moments when it is necessary to speak frankly," said the emperor, who has been a consistent friend of the United States and has given us a base for our most important foreign tracking station. "This is one of those moments.

"I shall be glad to talk to you frankly," he continued. "But first take a look around our country, then come back and we will talk again."

Tito Gets Ahead
I did look around Ethiopia, going all the way to Lake Tana, a beautiful body of water about half as big as Lake Erie, framed by green mountains. It's a natural storage basin for the river which flows down through Egypt to give Nasser 85 per cent of the water for his Aswan Dam, and to give the Egyptian peasant the life blood for the irrigation system which produces most of the world's long staple cotton.

Out of this natural reservoir tumbles the Tis-Esat Falls in a cascade as high as Niagara, to start the Blue Nile below. There, in the approximate spot where the emperor had asked an American company to build a dam forty years ago, is a dam and power plant built by a Communist country — Yugoslavia.

The emperor got tired of waiting for the United States and turned to his friend Tito, who advanced the money and supplied the technicians. Building the dam took only three years.

It is not as big as originally contemplated, nor does it materially affect the flow of the Nile. But below it, the Blue Nile flows through a deep gorge similar to the Grand Canyon, where it can be easily contained by more storage dams. And further down stream, the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey has surveyed a dam on the Fincha River where the terrain is flat and adapted to irrigation.

This is the survey which the emperor referred to impatiently as having taken five years. The Coast and Geodetic Survey did a beautiful job, but they did take between four and five years. And meanwhile not only Ethiopia but all Africa has watched the Russians complete the first phase of a far greater dam in about the time it took the United States to make a survey.

The American Ambassador, Ed Korry has assured the Ethiopians that we are committed to build the Fincha project. But the question is — when?

The emperor has also tried to get the United States to help build a dam on the Wabi River, and the Yugoslavs have already put up $5,000,000 for a survey. But the Wabi flows, not into the Nile, but into the Indian Ocean through Somalia, and neither the United States, the French, nor the British appear anxious to offend the new Arab, semi-Nomad republican of Somalia, now engaged in a bitter religious-territorial controversy with Ethiopia.

The Russians and Nasser, less sensitive about neighbors on the Nile, went ahead with Aswan without consulting any of the governments about riparian rights, even though parts of the Sudan will be flooded by Nasser's 300-mile-long lake.

So goes the battle of water and politics on the restless continent of Africa where capitalism and communism are now engaged in a major struggle.

Goldwater Disturbs GOP Leaders

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—If Sen. Barry Goldwater wins the Republican presidential nomination, to a large extent it's because he showed vitality. Almost without exception other Republican leaders sat back, keeping hands off. Now they're stirred up.

The exception was New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. He and Goldwater wanted the nomination and fought for it. None of the others appeared to lift a finger except Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, who never had a chance.

No wonder Rockefeller looked sardonically Sunday at some of those others — like Michigan Gov. George Romney and Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton—who now suddenly seem disturbed that Goldwater may win.

They showed no concern before when Rockefeller and Goldwater were battling and might ruin each other. Now they do when Goldwater may clinch the nomination before the Republican convention meets in July.

Even former Vice President Richard M. Nixon sounds more vigorous about being a candidate.

And former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who said he would express no preference and has kept hands off all these months, now has appealed to Scranton to make himself available for the nomination.

He can say his nudge to Scranton isn't expressing preference, since he had previously said he wants convention delegates to have a "fair chance to work their will." But nudging Scranton is being more active than he was before.

Scranton himself said last April the nomination should go to someone who fought for it, "rather than someone who sits on the sidelines and gets it in an easy way."

He said he wasn't even stirred up enough about the issues to be a good candidate although he said he would accept a draft. Last week he said he'd be willing, if drafted by the convention, to run for the vice presidency with Goldwater.

He even said he knew of no "basic differences between him" and the Arizona senator. But Sunday, with Goldwater getting closer to a first-ballot nomination, Scranton suddenly said he would be available for the nomination.

"I'm ready to serve," he said. This time he didn't say he'd have to be drafted. But now, also suddenly, he and Romney say they want clarification of Goldwater's views although he's expressed them for months and written three books.

"I have a feeling," Scranton said, "that the country as a whole is beginning to think he does not" measure up to the principles of the Republican party. This was an ironic statement, coming from Scranton.

The country as a whole would be puzzled to know where Scranton measures up to those principles since his views on anything are widely unknown. It was right here that Rockefeller got in a dig at Scranton and Romney.

Ask Your Child for Help

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: I've been so sick with flu that my mother has had to come over and take care of my family. Two days ago, I got up, still feeling a bit shaky. As usual, whenever I don't feel well, my 12-year-old boy has been impossible. Today I had to sit down because I suddenly felt so weak. I caught such a look of impatience on his face that I have been crying over it. I know that flu leaves you feeling very depressed, but I have to tell someone about this. I feel so hurt . . .

ANSWER: Were you ever seriously sick when your son was a small boy?

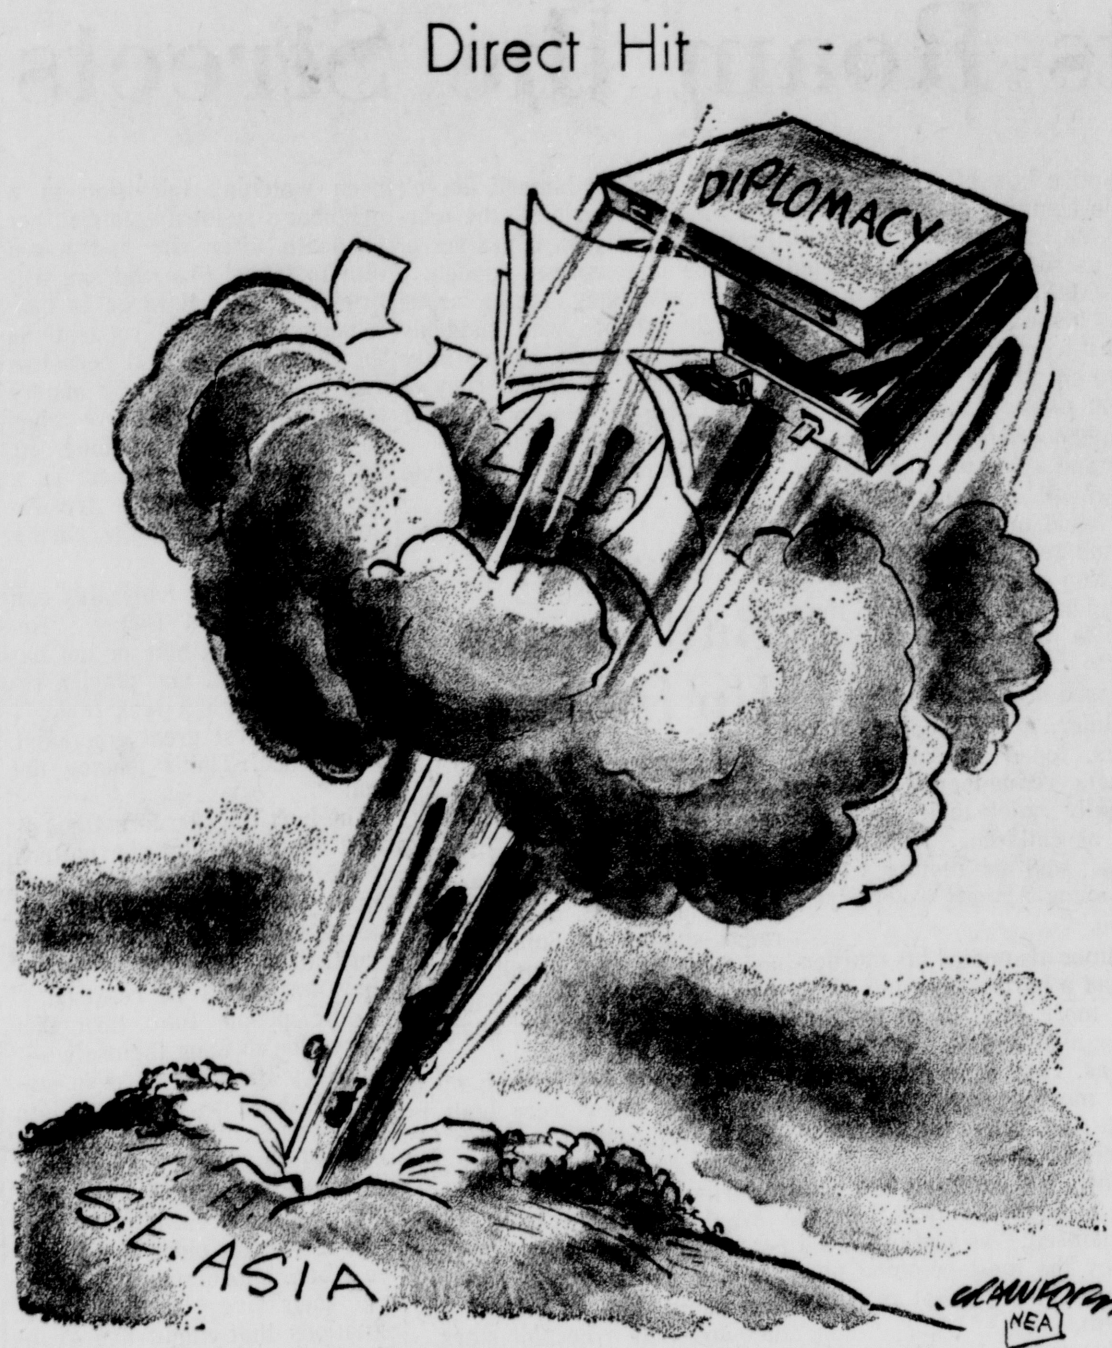

If so, his attitude is understandable. Our illnesses can be terrifying to little children. We are shut away from them, mysteriously lost to them behind the door of our sick room. Other people take us over. Threatened by the strange atmosphere of general concern, helpless to help us, they will suffer agonies of sympathy which they are unable to express.

This kind of experience may repeat itself several times during early childhood. The first thing we know, our 12-year-old glares at us when we sink into a chair with post-flu weakness. We complain to Muriel Lawrence about his callousness. But a callus is protection against hurt. It is created to shield a soft and sensitive part of us against pain. So I suspect that your son's callous treatment of you when you feel poorly is protection against pain — against the pain of sympathy for you which he cannot express.

Have I rung a bell?

If I have, we know how to treat this callousness of his. We must ask him for help when we don't feel well. We must give him a way to release that sympathy which he is tired of feeling to no purpose. I our post-flu weakness overwhelms us, let's by all means sink down in a chair. But let's not just sit there, an object of frustrated pity. Let's say, "Bill, see that spoon? Take it, please; open the oven door and baste the roast for me. I don't feel strong enough to do it."

I have a feeling that you are

Heading Toward Reality

Almost daily, Missouri appears to be heading closer to the dream of Dr. George Ulett in getting its rapid treatment facilities for mental illness into operation. But, the latest progress reports show a long road ahead.

It was nearly nine months ago that the legislation setting up the centers, under a 9.5 million dollar appropriations, went into effect and since that time Ulett, who heads the Division of Mental Diseases, has been meeting with architects and engineers to get the construction ball rolling.

The centers have received a great deal of publicity and to some may appear to be a unique experiment, but other states have had similar operations for years, Ulett notes, with many doing a very creditable job.

Basically, the centers will be used for intensive treatment, with 85 per cent of the patients referred there being treated and released within a month. In addition, the centers will afford the state a more attractive recruiting program for badly needed psychiatric workers.

Another aspect which may develop as a result of the centers would be the start of a process to rid the present state hospitals of patients who really don't belong there. Ulett indicates that of the 10,000 to 11,000 persons now confined to Missouri mental institutions some 3,000 should be in nursing homes as their problem generally is old age.

Here is a brief rundown on the progress being made at the three centers:

ST. LOUIS

The state already has legally acquired the facilities of the Malcolm Bliss Mental Health Center, formerly financed and operated by the city of St. Louis. Architects have completed plans and specifications for a 120-bed addition with bids expected to be sought by July. Ulett feels this facility should be completed within two years.

COLUMBIA

Here, the state is virtually starting from scratch. The center is to be a part of the University of Missouri medical school operations. This unit is hampered by finances. Originally the plan was for a $2.5 million program but the legislature cut this by half a million. Ulett says application will be made for federal funds while work will proceed around the $2 million figure. It is possible, Ulett said, that this unit will be in operation by the end of 1966.

KANSAS CITY

The state ran into a legal snarl with the Psychiatric Receiving Center and is working under a leasing arrangement with the existing program. About the only change at present is where Kansas City was pumping in several hundred thousand dollars a year, this is now being done by the state. This is an already established program, with a qualified training program for psychiatric interns. The state is hopeful that new facilities planned here will be in use by next spring.

When completed, each of the centers will have a minimum of 120 new beds. In addition, the state will be in a position to train its own staff of resident psychiatrists. Commenting on the program, Ulett said: "I think that this program, going into effect as it will in the next two to three years, will in each year of existence decrease the number of patients and provide adequate treatment at an early date."

Ulett appears to be extremely confident that the state is on the threshold of a whole new era of treating mental illness, shutting the door on outmoded practices and returning more persons back into society.

Water Pollution —

A Festering Sore

In light of recent fish kills in Missouri streams, the Missouri Water Pollution Board has under consideration plans for setting up a system of monitoring stations at various points along the Missouri River to provide immediate data on water pollution.

A similar system is set to go into effect along the Mississippi River later this summer as a joint effort between Missouri and Illinois.

Surprisingly enough, over 400 communities scattered throughout Missouri are reported to either have no sewage treatment facilities or those facilities that are available are woefully inadequate.

Each month sees numerous communities voting on bond issue proposals to comply with state orders concerning dumping raw sewage into nearby streams. Although the state apparently has received good cooperation when it orders such a stoppage, it also has the legal means to make it rough on any town not cooperating.

For instance, if a community does nothing about its sewage problem, the board can seek a court hearing and give the community a certain date by which it must comply. If this isn't met, a fine of up to $100 a day can be imposed against the community.

Said one official, "We haven't had to impose the fine yet."

Another problem constantly confronting the Water Pollution Board is industrial waste poured into state streams. Studies are now under way in various water basins in an effort to determine the extent of this problem.

Status of Women

A progress report is expected to be made July 13 by the newly created Mo. Commission on the Status of Women in Missouri when it meets in Jefferson City. The commission will look into the various areas where women are affected in such fields of employment, etc.

Heading the commission as chairman is Dr. Blanche Dow, president of Cotter College located at Nevada, Missouri.

Time Derails the Doting
Mother's ConversationBy Ruth Millett
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"Would you please, please write a column," asks a woman reader, "about the mothers who have but one topic of conversation — a teen-age daughter?"

"Wherever you speak to one of these doting mothers, you have to listen while she goes on and on about her daughter. And when two of the same sort are in a group, heaven help the others. No one else gets a chance to get a word in edgewise. Do these mothers really suppose that everyone is as interested in their teen-agers' doings as they are?"

A mother who talks constantly about a teen-age daughter has shy of asking your son's help when you are ill.

Well, if anything is calculated to harden callousness in children, it's mothers who martyr themselves in sickness; who groan and moan over their tasks, asking for help with every moan and groan but refusing to demand it in words. No child, however sympathetic, can take such torment long.

probably never bothered to ask herself if anyone else is interested.

She talks about her daughter at every opportunity for one of two reasons.

She is so busy reliving her own girlhood through her daughter that she hasn't any real and absorbing interest of her own.

Or—she thinks her daughter needs a full-time press agent to get her launched, and figures that mother is just the person for the job. So she tackles it with dedication, and doesn't let up until her daughter is safely married.

If these doting mothers bore you too much with their endless chatter about their darling daughters, there's just one solution. Avoid them for a few years.

Once they marry off their daughters, they'll quit talking about them. As soon as the girls are out of dating competition, the mothers will relax and go back to leading their own lives. They'll then have some more generally interesting topics of conversation.

It's amazing how much a daughter's marriage can do for the woman who has been thinking of nothing else since her daughter's first date in junior high.

Bat Earns Paycheck

Stephens Single Defeats Detroit

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer
Gene Stephens, who made a living in the '50s as Ted Williams' caddy in the Boston Red Sox outfield, earns his major league paycheck these days with a set of clubs.

Stephens' pinch single in the eighth inning drove in the winning run Sunday as Chicago nipped Detroit 2-1 and completed a doubleheader sweep. There was a time when all Stephens needed to earn his keep in the big time was a ready glove. That was in the twilight of Williams' fabulous American League career. The Splendid Splinter would start in left field, do his damage at the plate, and then let Stephens handle the fielding for the last few innings.

But when Williams retired in 1960, Stephens had to come up with something more than a five-fingered piece of leather to keep his job. It took him three years and a trip to the minors but he appears to have done it.

Stephens drifted to Baltimore and Kansas City and then to Indianapolis in 1963 when, all of a sudden, he discovered his bat. A .304 average with 17 homers earned him a look with the White Sox at the tail end of last season and he impressed with seven for 18 and a .389 average.

Chicago Manager Al Lopez remembered Stephens' bat in the eighth inning of Sunday's second game against Detroit. The White Sox had taken the opener 8-3 but were trailing 1-0 against Hank Aguirre in the nightcap. Floyd Robinson led off the eighth and reached first on Jake Wood's error. A balk and a sacrifice moved Robinson to third and he scored on Ron Hansen's single. Don Buford's single put the winning run in scoring position and Lopez called for Stephens.

The veteran outfielder singled to left, delivering Hansen with the winning run and completing the sweep for the Chisox.

The double victory coupled with Minnesota's 5-2 victory over Baltimore put the White Sox in first place, a half-game in front of the Orioles. Elsewhere in the AL, New York whacked Los Angeles 9-3, Boston and Kansas City split with the Red Sox winning the first 9-5 and the A's taking the second 8-6, and Cleveland split a pair with Washington, winning the first 3-2 in 15 innings and losing the nightcap 6-3.

Stephens' hit made a winner of Joel Horlen, who fired a strong three-hitter, allowing just one hit after the first inning and retiring 20 of the last 21 batters he faced.

Dave Nicholson crashed a three-run homer and Pete Ward delivered a clutch single to win the opener. The Tigers had come back to tie it after Nicholson's eighth homer of the season put the Sox on top. A hit batsman and singles by Robinson and Ward pushed the lead run across in the sixth.

Whitey Ford won his seventh straight for the Yankees with home run support from Tommy Tresh and Elston Howard. Ken McBride lost it for the Angels, his 10th setback in 11 decisions. Ford hasn't lost and McBride hasn't won since Opening Day.

The Red Sox and A's had a home run duel with 11 balls soaring into Municipal Stadium's seats. Frank Malzone and Carl Yastrzemski drove in three runs apiece in Boston's first game victory. Both homered and Yastrzemski had another circuit in the second game. Dick Williams homered twice for Boston in the second game and Jim Gentile drove in five runs with two homers for the A's in the nightcap.

The A's scored all their runs in the opener on homers with Ed Charles and Bill Bryan each connecting with a man on and pitcher Orlando Pena adding a bases empty shot. Tony Conigliaro had a two-run homer for the Red Sox.

The Twins halted rookie Wally Bunker's winning streak at six games and dropped the Orioles into second place. Baltimore grabbed a quick 2-0 lead but Harmon Killebrew's 15th homer evened things in the second. Tony Oliva and pitcher Camilo Pascual, who won his eighth, drove in runs to give Minnesota the lead and Bernie Allen's fifth homer closed the scoring.

Bob Chance clubbed two homers for Cleveland but the Indians struggled into the 15th before winning the first game against Washington. Al Smith singled Leon Wagner home to break it up after a walk and a throwing error had put the winning run on third.

Paul Horner singled to center driving in Lange and Horner then moved to second on a wild pitch in time for Schnakenberg to single to right and help his own cause by driving in Horner. Columbia was blanked again in their half of the ninth.

Lonnie Schott had the best night at the plate for the Chiefs going 2-for-4, while Morgan Dow, Ferguson, Lange, Nagel, Horner and Schnakenberg all had one hit apiece.

The Chiefs travel to Marshall Thursday night for a game and play Lexington here in Sedalia on Sunday night, June 14.

Fires A One-hitter

Schnakenberg Sparkles As Chiefs Rally Late to Win

Jim Schnakenberg twirled a one-hitter and his teammates waited till the ninth inning to plate two runs as Sedalia's Ban Johnson Chiefs downed Columbia 2-0 Sunday night.

The game started as a pitching duel between the lanky Schnakenberg and Columbia's hurler Wes Fewell. Schnakenberg allowed only three men to reach base — two of them on errors with the lone hit off his offerings a single. Columbia posed only one threat in the fifth, but didn't make it successful.

Schnakenberg's win came as he struck out 13 batters and allowed only one walk. He is now 2-0 for the season, registering his other victory against Lowry City in relief of Terry Fletcher.

The Chiefs collected nine hits in the contest but didn't put them together until the ninth inning. With both teams still scoreless in the ninth, Bob Lange led off with a single for the Chiefs and Bob Nagel advanced him to second on a sacrifice bunt.

Foyt Escapes Three Close Race Scrapes

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A. J. Foyt drove away from three close scrapes, including a fiery crash that left Jim Hurtubise critically burned, to win Sunday's 100-mile big car test but said, "If all auto races are going to be as hairy as this one, I might consider quitting."

Foyt, the winner of the 500-mile Memorial Day race at Indianapolis, now has won all four events in the new U.S. Auto Club season. He was first in earlier 100-milers at Trenton, N.J., and Phoenix, Ariz.

In Sunday's race, watched by a record crowd of 36,285 at the Wisconsin State Fairgrounds, Foyt finished a 1½ miles ahead of Len Sutton of Portland, Ore. Foyt, from Houston, Tex., drove an Offenhauser powered car with the engine mounted in front.

All of the first 10 cars were powered by Offenhausers and all had the engines in front except for the rear-mounts driven by Sutton and ninth-place Jim McElreath of Arlington, Tex. All 22 starters used an alcohol fuel, spurning the gasoline that figured in the fiery crash that killed two drivers in the Memorial Day race at Indianapolis.

Foyt, whose purse was $9,830, averaged 100.365 miles per hour on the one-mile paved track. His time was 59 minutes, 47.581 seconds for the 100 miles, 28 of them under the caution flag.

Speaking over the public address system after the race, Foyt said, "Man I had three close calls."

One was a 51st lap tangle that sent Hurtubise's car into the air to crash in flames against a concrete retaining wall.

Rodger Ward of Indianapolis, who had been leading in a rear-mounted, Ford engine car, appeared to slide coming out of a turn and was forced to quit the race by clutch trouble. Foyt close behind braked but there was no place for the third-place Hurtubise to go.

The left front wheel of Hurtubise's car climbed over the right rear wheel of Foyt's racer. The fire under Hurtubise's car was quickly extinguished and he was pulled out.

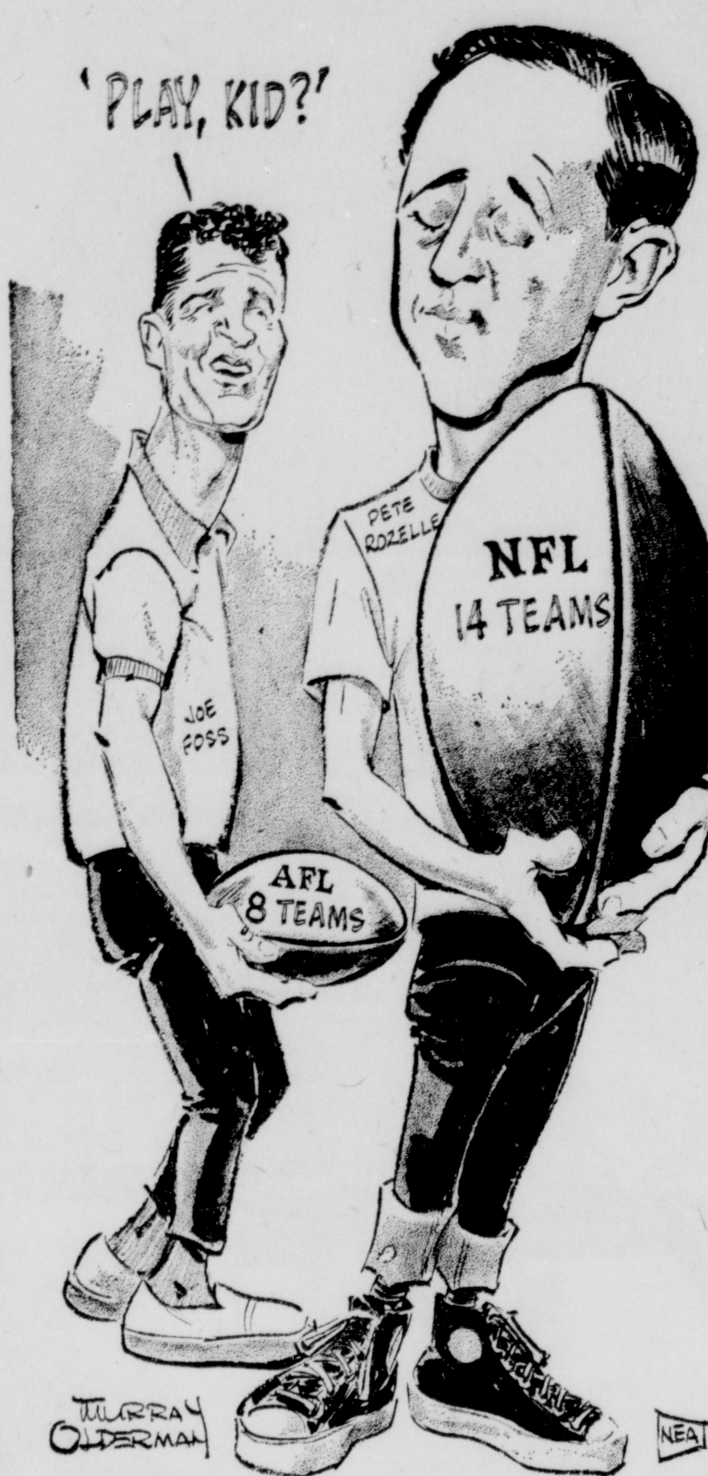

Hurtubise suffered first and second degree burns over 40 per cent of his body, including his hands, arms, legs and back. A spokesman for West Allis Memorial Hospital said he was in "critical condition, but doing fine."

The hospital said he would be flown today to the burn center at the U.S. Army Brooke Medical Center at St. Louis.

A spectator hit by a piece of debris was cut on the head but in satisfactory condition at a hospital.

Third place went to Bud Tinglestad of Dayton, Ohio, and Troy Ruttman of Dearborn, Mich., was fourth. Only nine cars finished.

Reds Trip Cards; A's Split a Pair

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Louis Cardinals hit three home runs Sunday but so did the Cincinnati Reds as the Reds rolled over St. Louis 11-6 at Cincinnati.

Red catcher John Edwards hit a first inning grand slam home run to start the parade for Cincinnati.

The victory gave Cincinnati a sweep of the three-game series and left the Cardinals with a 1-5 record on their current road trip.

St. Louis' Julian Javier slammed two home runs for the Cardinals and Charlie James hit the other Redbird homer.

The Cardinals play San Francisco tonight at San Francisco. Redbird Manager Johnny Keane will start Ray Sadecki (5-4) against San Francisco's Ron Herbel (3-1).

Edwards homered Sunday with the bases loaded after St. Louis jumped to a 1-0 lead on singles by Curt Flood and Ken Boyer. Frank Robinson and rookie Deron Johnson also hit home runs for Cincinnati.

Johnson had five-for-five for the day.

Big Jim Gentile hit two home runs and drove in five runs to help the Kansas City Athletics to an 8-6 victory over Boston in the second game of a doubleheader at Kansas City.

The A's lost the first game to the Red Sox 9-5.

Gentile's two homers gave him 12 for the season.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Three persons were inducted into the national Collegiate baseball Hall of Fame Sunday night.

They are Ralph Waldo Emerson Jones, who has been both president and baseball coach of Grambling, La. College 28 years, Max Molock, the main force in the baseball program at St. Marys College in Winona, Minn. for 34 years, and Jimmy Gleeson, former major league player and now a coach for the New York Yankees.

Gleeson couldn't be present, and will receive his plaque at the Yankee - Athletics game in Kansas City Aug. 4.

Plaques were presented to Jones and Molock at a dinner in connection with the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics baseball tournament, which opens today in St. Joseph.

The Coach of the Year award was given to Ray Bengue who is bringing his Sam Houston State team to the NAIA tourney for the fifth straight year. The team is the defending champion.

Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics, was the principal speaker at the banquet.

Horses May Meet Again At Saratoga

NEW YORK (AP)—Quadrangle, the bubble burster, and his three closest pursuers in last Saturday's $154,600 Belmont Stakes, parted company today with no idea when they'll meet again. It could be in the 1½ miles of the $75,000-added Travers at Saratoga Aug. 22.

Quadrangle, who emphatically halted Northern Dancer's bid for the Triple Crown, won the 1½-mile race by two lengths in 2:28 2-5 to earn $110,850 and pay $15.10 for $2.

Roman Brother was second, four lengths in front of Northern Dancer as the Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner faltered after challenging Quadrangle for the lead one-quarter-mile from the finish. Hill Rise, second choice to the heavily backed Dancer, trailed by another one-half length in fourth place.

Elliott Burch, personable trainer of Paul Mellon's Quadrangle, hasn't decided on future plans for the strapping son of Cohoes-Tap Day. But he is leaning strongly towards giving his hard-hitting ace another crack at older horses in the $100,000-added Suburban Handicap over 1¼ miles at Aqueduct July 4.

Roman Brother, who was the smallest horse in the race, likely will head for Chicago for three $100,000-added races—the Chicagoan June 27, the Classic Aug. 29, and the American Derby Aug. 29.

Horatio Luro, trainer of Northern Dancer, left for Canada Sunday and stable connections said the horse would be shown off before the home folks in the 1¼ miles of the $50,000-added Queens Plate at Woodbine.

E. P. Taylor, owner of the Dancer, is head of the Woodbine track. Northern Dancer then will be given a rest before going after the Travers.

Bill Finnegan, trainer of Hill Rise, left today for California but the Santa Anita Derby winner remained in New York in charge of Bill Winfrey. The West Coast colt will be given a long rest before resuming training for the Travers.

Second College Division Golf Tourney Is Set

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Some 90 golfers from 28 colleges and universities will tee off here Tuesday in the second annual college division tournament of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

During the four-day 72-hole medal play, teams from 13 schools will seek to take the title from the host school, Southwest Missouri State College. The four golfers who represented Southwest Missouri State last year are back and already have taken the NCAA midwest championship.

Contestants from the other 15 colleges will compete for the medalist role, taken last year by Gary Head of Middle Tennessee State, who was graduated in January.

Eighteen holes will be played at the Twin Oaks Country Club Tuesday; 18 at the Hickory Hills Country Club Wednesday; 18 at Hickory Hills Thursday and the final 18 on Twin Oaks Friday.

The 10 low individual scores and ties may enter the University division tournament at Broadmoor, Colorado Springs, Colo., June 15.

Rain Postpones League Opening

Several hundred Little Leaguers were disappointed Sunday evening when the official opening of the season was postponed one week because of the condition of the ball park. Rain which began falling early Sunday continued up to shortly afternoon soaking the ball diamond and outfield.

Secretary of State Warren E. Hearnes, who had been invited to pitch the first ball signalling the opening, was notified and expressed his regrets of the ceremonies having to be postponed. Invited to return next Sunday, Secretary Hearnes notified Kenny Melton, president of Little League, that previous commitments make it impossible to come Sedalia for the official opening next Sunday.

He expressed his appreciation for being invited to attend both Sunday and the re-set date and sent word to the Little Leaguers for a most successful season.

Cater Loses Place At Bat As Managers Play Strategy

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
When they come to write Dan-ny Cater's baseball epitaph, they could say simply: "He was an innocent victim of the Great War."

Cater, a 24-year-old Philadel-phia rookie, was listed in the starting line-up as batting fifth Sunday when first-place San Francisco edged the second-place Phillies 4-3 in 10 innings. Although seven Phillies came to the plate in the first inning, Cater never made it.

Managers Al Dark and Gene Mauch took care of that.

They perpetrated one of the weirdest innings of the season, moving players in and out faster than James Bond gets into trouble.

Giants' starter Bob Hendley, a southpaw, triggered the strategy battle by hitting Tony Taylor with a pitch, walking Cookie Rojas and giving a run-scoring single to Johnny Callison, the only hit of the inning.

Out came Dark and in came right-handed reliever Bob Bolin. Richie Allen walked, loading the bases and bringing Cater to the plate.

However, before the right-handed hitting Cater could look at a pitch, Mauch pulled him for left-hander Wes Covington. Bolin then went the same way as Cater as Dark brought on south-paw Ken MacKenzie. Mauch, not wanting to run out of out-fielders before he got through one inning, let Covington bat.

Dark, however, didn't let MacKenzie pitch too long. After he got Covington on a pop out, he departed in favor of right-hander Gaylord Perry, the fourth Giants' pitcher. By now, observers were beginning to wonder if Dark would have to finish the game with Willie Mays on the mound.

The rest of the inning, though, went relatively fast. Roy Sievers lined a sacrifice fly to Mays for the second run, and Gus Triandos struck out.

After that display of bullpen versatility, Dark apparently took pity on his staff. He brought in just three more pitchers the rest of the way.

Manny Hot At First

A's Send Jimenez, Hurler To Pacific League Squad

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics are sending outfielder Manny Jimenez and pitcher Aurelio Monteagudo to the Dallas club in the Pacific Coast League.

Manager Ed Lopat broke the news to Jimenez after Sunday's double - header and Manny promptly kicked up a storm. "I quit," he yelled. "I will not report. I think I'm a better ball player than others they have on this club. I don't want to go back to the minors. I will go home first."

Jimenez threw his uniform on the floor, kicked things around and cracked a chair by slamming it down.

After he cooled off he went into the office of Pat Friday, general manager. "You go down to Dallas and play yourself into shape," Friday said. "I'm sure you'll be back soon."

Then the 26-year-old Jimenez agreed to go. He has been out of action more than two weeks with a bruised rib. He has played in 27 of the Athletics' 48 games and is batting .210.

Two years ago Jimenez led the American League in hitting during the early months and finished with a .301 average, playing 139 games. Last year he made two trips to Portland and finished in Kansas City with a .280 average in 60 games.

The Athletics have recalled outfielder John Wojcik and pitcher Dan Pfister. They will join the A's in Washington to-night.

Mel McGaha, one of the Athletics' six coaches, has been named manager of the A's rock-

Elsewhere in the NL, Cincinnati outslugged St. Louis 11-6, Chicago overpowered Milwaukee 5-2, Pittsburgh whipped Houston 6-1 after losing 6-3 and Los Angeles trounced New York 6-1, then played a 1-1 tie when rain washed out the game after five innings.

Although Mauch might have won the battle, Dark wound up winning the war. Down 3-0, the Giants rallied in the ninth on Duke Snider's two-run homer and Jim Hart's solo blast. They won it in the 10th as Chris Short walked Tom Haller with the bases loaded, forcing in Chuck Hiller.

Deron Johnson belted five hits in five times at bat and John Edwards clouted a grand slam homer in the first inning for the Reds. Johnson rapped three singles, a double and a home run. Frank Robinson also homered for the Reds while Julian Javier hit two and Charlie James one for the Cardinals.

The Cubs knocked down the Braves with home run power. Ernie Banks and Billy Williams each connected with one on and Andre Rodgers hit a bases-empty blast. Hank Aaron slammed a two-run homer for the Braves.

Vernon Law scattered seven hits as he won his third game against five defeats for the Pirates. He was supported by Bill Mazeroski's three-run inside-the-park homer in the second.

The Colts won the first game with a five-run rally in the ninth. Rusty Staub drove in the tying and winning runs with a bases-loaded single while John Bateman added a home run. Until the ninth, Pirates' starter Bob Veale had a three-hitter. He struck out 12, tying a Pittsburgh record for strikeouts in a nine-inning game.

Don Drysdale pitched and battled the Dodgers over the Mets in the opener, allowing six hits and driving in two runs with a homer in the third and a sacrifice bunt in the four-run ninth. He also singled, Charlie Smith homered for the Mets.

Jim Hickman's home run in the fifth gave the Mets a 1-1 tie in the nightcap.

8-foot Putt on 18th Wraps Up T-bird Crown for Lema

RYE, N.Y. (AP)—"I saw my wife standing there in the rain on the 18th, and I said, 'Honey, I sure made this thing interesting, didn't I?'"

You might say that.

There was Tony Lema, going down in flames in the final round of the $100,000 Thunderbird Golf Tournament Sunday. First he held a seven-stroke lead over Mike Souchak with 13 holes to play, and suddenly he was one stroke behind with four to go.

It was building up to be the biggest collapse since the stock market in 1929.

Lema redeemed his pledge to treat the press to champagne when he rapped in a pressure eight-foot putt on the 18th hole for his second straight birdie, and the $20,000 top prize.

The birdie four gave him a final round of 71, one-under par for the short Westchester course and a 72-hole total of 276.

Souchak, who started off as if he was going to have to skip a couple of holes to break 100, finished with 69 for 277 and $12,000 for second place.

Ken Venturi, who had to telephone and ask for an invitation to play in the Thunderbird, and portly Billy Casper finished at 279. Chi Chi Rodriguez and Phil Rodgers were 280.

Big Jack Nicklaus couldn't get going and wound up with a 72 for 282, while Arnold Palmer, the Thunderbird winner last year, was well back at 285.

The Lema-Souchak duel had all the drama.

Champagne Tony, who says he is 30, going on 40, from standing over those money putts, had a three-stroke lead on the first tee. Souchak promptly took a double bogey, and Lema's lead was five.

Lema birdied the third, and Souchak made a bogey and now it was seven.

On the short sixth hole, Souchak hit his tee shot over the green into a budding jungle, and it looked as if the tournament was over. But Big Mike, the 37-year-old ex-Duke football player, chipped into the cup for a birdie.

strokes. Lema got a birdie at 12, and Souchak made an eagle. Two strokes.

On the par three 14th, Souchak put his tee shot within four feet and Lema struck him in the crowd. "It was a terrible shot," Lema said. "And the chip was bad, and then I three-putted."

Now Souchak was ahead by one stroke, and Lema showed that he is made of stern stuff.

You, sir!

What are you just sitting there for?

Why aren't you down here getting your Char-Broil?

We're closed, you say?

Well, why weren't you here this morning or this afternoon or yesterday or some time anyway?

Don't you realize that this masterpiece, this superb creation of cast iron and oak is one of the greatest things to happen to mankind since hobbler skirts disappeared?

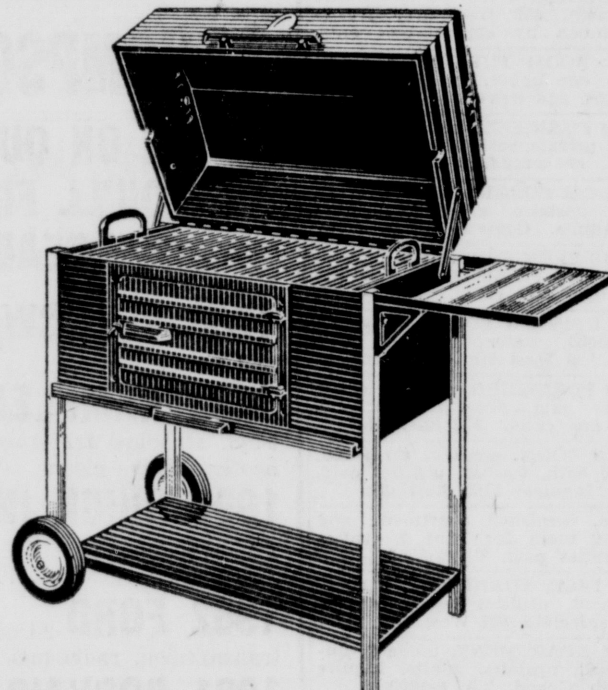

Don't you know that its covered char-broiling, its spit-cooking, its shish-kabobbing, its smoke-cooking, its 1,000,001 delicacies can turn you into one big blob of excess avoirdupois? For which we're not responsible.

Wives, arise. Come out of the kitchen. Once your spouse gets his mitts on a Char-Broil, you may never go back.

Husbands, have no fear. You won't want her to.

And if you don't come in tomorrow, we will consider you not only insensitive to the joy of adventure but also incapable of taste.

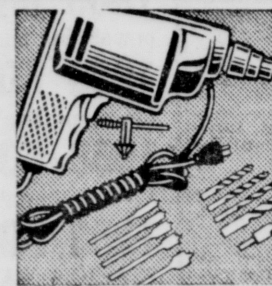

Please come in.

The Char-Broil Covered Portable Pit. Once you have one, you'll never want another, or need one.
